Legal Requirements for Transporting Firearms in Victoria

Under Victorian law, all licensed firearm owners must transport firearms unloaded and securely stored, with ammunition carried separately and securely. The general requirements include:

In most circumstances firearms should be transported safely by:

- Storing firearms in a padded or hard case. Firearms and magazines must not be loaded.
- Limiting the operability of the firearm and where possible, removing bolts, opening the action, or using trigger locks and chamber flags.
- Storing cartridge ammunition separately from the firearm. We recommend that you store ammunition in a lockable container while in the vehicle. You should keep any keys to the container in your possession.
- Keeping firearms secure and out of sight of the public.

A commonsense approach to storing firearms during transport is essential. Licence holders must immediately return firearms to storage when not in use or being transported.

More detailed guidance can be found through:

- The Firearm Safety Foundation: Transporting Firearms and Ammunition
- Victoria Police: Firearm Storage Requirements

Importantly, the requirement to transport firearms securely applies at all times—not just on public roads.

For those flying to the Championships, please ensure that you check with your airline for any procedures that you may need to abide with, regarding travelling with firearms and ammunition. If flying with Qantas, you will need to apply for a dangerous goods permit for the transportation of ammunition (limited to 5kg gross weight).
